

Shauna Lee Manning, M.Ed.

Shauna Lee Manning is of Cherokee and Muscogee Creek heritage and is an enrolled citizen in the United Cherokee Ani Yun Wiya Nation, a state recognized tribe in Alabama. She is active in the local Native American community. Her passion is Native American history and she teaches successful workshops on Native history and current issues for teachers in the Massachusetts Teachers Association (union). She is an active member of the MTA and serves as co-chair of the Task Force on Race and is a member of the Ethnic Minority Affairs Committee.

Manning has a M.Ed. in instructional design and a Master's Certificate in Conflict Resolution from the University of Massachusetts Boston. She has lived in the Boston area for 30 years and currently lives in Quincy, Massachusetts.